Passadumkeag, August 10, 1874.

To the Honorable Judges of Probate for the County of Penobscot.

The undersigned, a resident of Bangor, hereby informs your Honors, that she was lawfully married to John Bayley, of said Bangor, aforesaid to John Bayley, of said Bangor, aforesaid, by the Rev. George W. Coney, late minister of the Gospel, on the eighteenth day of July, 1874, and that she has been a faithful wife to said John since that ceremony, and has never left her husband, without any just cause, and that he has not lived or cohabited with her for the space of three months next after said marriage. Your Libellant allows that she has no knowledge of the residence of said John, and that she has been required by him to join with him in the execution of a deed of her real estate, which she has refused to do, and he has threatened to sell her real estate without her consent, and without any conveyance from her, and she believes he will do so unless restrained by your Honors. She therefore prays your honors that her said husband may be enjoined from selling her said real estate, and that he may be ordered to pay her such sum for her support and that of her minor children, as your Honors may deem reasonable and proper, and for such other and further relief as your Honors may deem proper in the premises.
ABIGAIL P. BAYLEY.

THE PLYMOUTH CHURCH VERDICT

We transfer a large portion of our space to day to the Report of the Investigating Committee of Plymouth Church on the charges preferred by Theodore Tilton against Rev Henry Ward Beecher. The occasion was the most notable in the church annals of this country and the enthusiasm with which the verdict of exoneration was ratified shows to the world that the faith of the great congregation in the integrity of their pastor has not been shaken by the desperate assault of his enemies. The report is signed by every member of the Committee, three of them representing the Church and three the Society. The salient points of the evidence in the case are thoroughly reviewed, and the finding is that which the public fully anticipated, and which must have been rendered by any jury in view of the testimony adduced. The members of this Committee, all of them conservative in their standing, have devoted a greater part of their time, for more than six months, to the thorough investigation of a delicate trust, and none who know them can doubt that they have earnestly sought the ends of truth and justice. They have invited testimony from every source and have patiently considered all that has been laid before them. Their duty was of the most sacred and responsible character. Not only the reputation of a beloved pastor but the honor of their Church, the moral welfare of their sons and other families and the church self respect, were involved in their action upon this case. No one can suppose that Plymouth Church Society or these distinguished members would desire to retain a minister and preacher in the most holy of his functions, and the verdict of the Committee is that by the Church, is entitled to full confidence as the honest conclusion of a body of intelligent conscientious and self respecting persons. It is a conclusion which the public generally had already reached on the evidence disclosed, or rather the lack of evidence in support of the accusations, and it is to be hoped that it will effectually dispose of the loathsome scandal which has poisoned the very atmosphere of late.

We shall not attempt to review the Report, which speaks for itself, and is, in itself, a review of the whole case that will be read by everyone who has been interested in the controversy. It may not be amiss, however, to allude to some of the efforts which have been made to prejudice the public in a verdict against the findings of the Committee. It has been urged that the members are friends of the accused, which is true, solely because the members of a congregation are generally friendly to their pastor, and, in conducting a church inquiry, members, and not outside parties, are usually chosen. The mistake of some persons has been in assuming that this Committee were prosecuting an investigation on behalf of the public, when they were acting as a church tribunal upon a matter of vital concern to their church. No one has questioned the moral standing or integrity of either of the gentlemen called to this unpleasant duty, and the fact that the verdict rendered is conceded by those outside the church to be warranted by the evidence should dispose of all charge of partisanship. I would be simply impossible for high minded men to continue partisans of Mr Beecher after they believed him guilty of what is charged, and the very warmth of the support indicates the implicit confidence of the investigators in his purity. They plainly discern and frankly censure the weakness and indulgence which involved their Pastor in these difficulties, but they arise from a searching examination of every particle of evidence with the unquashed conviction that Mr Beecher has been the victim of underhand villainy.

In advancing form their own opinions as to the remarkable course of Moulton, in thrusting himself obtrusively before the meeting of the church, after he had followed Tilton's example of repudiating the jurisdiction of the Committee and presenting his statement to the public, it is painful to record any word of disorder in a sanctuary but it must be remembered that Plymouth Church was disturbed in this important occasion and that the audience comprised very many who were not members. It would seem that Moulton's effort in offering such extreme provocation at a time of great excitement must have been to create a disturbance, and it is a wonder that he escaped violence at the hands of the excited populace gathered about the church. We are very glad that he did escape without bodily harm, for neither Mr Beecher nor his church would be benefited by the mobbing of an enemy, and such proceedings are especially indecorous in the vicinity of a church. But while Messrs Tilton and Moulton should be safe from all lawless violence, there can be little doubt that unless they can free themselves from their present load of infamy, even the City of Churches will prove an uncomfortable abiding place for the pair.

A CANDIDATE RETURNED. The Kennebec Journal of Saturday failed to reach us, but we are informed by a special that all the leading Republicans of Kennebec County unanimously call upon Mr. Mayhew to accept the Republican candidacy for Senator of Kennebec County. This unusual demand is made on the ground that Mr. Mayhew was arraigned on Friday before the police court in Augusta for keeping a liquor nuisance in Mount Vernon. Mr Mayhew recognized to appear before the October term of the Supreme Court. On the state of facts reported the Journal is to be commended for its promptness and decided stand, and a new candidate should at once be substituted in place of the one who has brought discredit upon himself and his party.

And now the Eastport Sentinel, at the very end of the line, comes out strongly for Hamlin. The old veteran is gaining, unmistakably.—Boston Globe.

The Dexter Gazette understands that the friends of Mr. W. W. Nutter, of Corinna, will present his name for the Republican nomination to the Legislature from that District.

In a recent letter to a friend Judge Poland said "there never was so much foolish nonsense written on any subject as on the Poland Gag Law, so-called." He says the law, in substance, provides that if a man commits a crime against the United States in the District of Columbia he may be arrested anywhere in the country and sent there for trial. No law of Congress, he says, can make libel an offence against the United States, and this particularly "has no more application to libel than it has to small pox." This is precisely in accord with the opinion we expressed at the time.

THE STATE MUSTER.

THE CAMP—ARRIVAL OF THE TROOPS—VARIOUS MATTERS PERTAINING TO THE ENCAMPMENT

The Annual Muster of the Maine State Militia begins in this city to-morrow, and, as has already been announced, the camp will be located on French's field, Kenduskeag avenue, where the troops will remain four days for the purpose of perfecting themselves in the qualifications of good soldiers. The field is about one mile from the business portion of the city, is readily accessible to that portion of the public who may wish to be present, contains about forty acres, and an ample supply of pure spring water. The field selected is well adapted to the purposes of a muster, affording good dry ground for the camp, a level field for drill, and being convenient for the transportation of all the necessaries for camp life. With good weather the encampment will be of value to the soldiery of Maine, and will doubtless draw large crowds of people. The camp will be called in honor of His Excellency the Governor, to whom the Regiment is indebted for many favors. The tents used are from Boston, and are furnished the State to be used during the muster for $400. They arrived by train Saturday morning, and at nine o'clock this forenoon a detachment of the Jackson Guards under command of Lieut. Davis will march to the field, pitch the tents and otherwise prepare the grounds so that all will be in readiness when the Regiment arrives.

CAMP DINGLEY

THE ARRIVAL.

General Chamberlain and those of his staff not already in town will arrive Monday evening, and will remain at the Bangor House until Tuesday morning, at which time they will go to the field and remain at the Division Headquarters during the encampment. Col Mattocks and staff and the following companies will arrive by the morning train on the Maine Central, Tuesday. Companies A and B of Portland, Co C. of Auburn, Co D of Norway, Co E of Skowhegan, Co F of Augusta, Co H of Belfast, the Montgomery Guards of Portland, Light Infantry, Biddeford, and Androscoggin Light Artillery of Auburn. The Coburn Cadets of Dover and Co K of Oldtown will arrive by an early train on the E & N A. Railroad the same morning, and Co I of Hampden by one of Lass & Howell's tugs.

THE MARCH TO THE MUSTER FIELD.

The several companies will meet at the Maine Central depot, where the Regiment will be formed, and under command of Col Mattocks, and headed by the Bangor Cornet Band, will march to the field and immediately go into camp. The unattached companies, consisting of the Coburn Cadets, Montgomery Guards and Biddeford Light Infantry, under command of Capt McMahon, headed by Chandler's Band of Portland, and the Androscoggin Light Artillery, under command of Capt Parham, headed by Band's Band of Boston, will follow the Regiment and join it in camp. The guns and other equipments of the artillery arrived Saturday. Horses will be furnished by D. P. Wingate, Esq, and on their arrival the command will immediately prepare to move as above stated.

IN CAMP

The troops on arriving at the muster field will report to General Chamberlain, and the duties of camp life will begin. The exact programme of the exercises Tuesday will be made known to the troops and public, probably through the orders issued to day. At the time of writing this nothing definite could be ascertained. It is probable, however, that the principal feature of public interest will be the dress parade at sunset. There will be about nine hundred men in camp, the companies averaging about fifty men each. Following is the roster of the brigade:

STAFF OFFICERS

Col Nelson Dingley Jr., Commander-in-Chief, Brigadier General Benjamin F. Murray, Jr., Adjutant General, Brigadier-General Lewis Lyon, Quartermaster General, Col. Biddeford Light Infantry—Captain James M. Andrews, 1st Lieutenant, Joseph L. Small, 2d Lieutenant, Cyrus F. Ivy.

Androscoggin Light Artillery, Lewiston and Auburn—Captain, Alexander S Parham, 1st Lieutenant Charles A. Hunter, Thos F. Mennealy, 2d Lieutenants, John Dwyer, Arthur E Madloch.

VISITORS.

During the time that the troops are in camp the public will have an opportunity to witness regimental, battalion, company and prize drills, the inspections, dress parades, reviews by the Governor and staff, by the Division officers, the guard mounting and other duties required, which the orders daily issued from headquarters will duly announce. Visitors will have free access to all parts of the camp without passes, except the head quarters, to secure admittance to which passes must be obtained.

THE PRIZE DRILLS

will be the most interesting feature of the muster. Four medals will be awarded in the name of the citizens of Bangor. One each will be given for the best drilled company, second best drilled company, best drilled soldier, and second best drilled soldier. The medals, which may be seen at Gen. White's, are made of gold, and are elegant in style and finish. The prize drills occur on the last day of the muster. But two companies will be allowed to compete for the prize—the two reported by the Division Inspector for excellence in company drill during the encampment. For individual drill, by any non-commissioned officer or private, the Drill to be in the school of the soldier, Upton's Revised Tactics, from section, 10 to 104 inclusive, and by word of command.

GENERAL MATTERS.

The sale of liquor and gambling on the field will not be allowed, and all offenders in this respect will be immediately expelled from the grounds.——The space allotted for booths for trading purposes, shows, etc., is already nearly taken up, and to-day the business of preparing the grounds will be vigorously pursued.——The flag staff manufactured by J. M. Davis & Co, will be erected to-day and the camps located.——The companies will be furnished regular army rations, each company furnishing its own cook.——The mess of the regimental officers will be under the charge of Lieut. Mason, who has had an abundant experience and will have everything in the nicest possible shape.

A striking illustration of judicial impartiality was afforded yesterday by a Democratic sheet which, without having published a line of the Plymouth Church report and before it was aware of the nature of that report, proceeded in its editorial columns to "make short work of the whitewashing of the Beecher Investigating Committee." The same noble draft was conspicuously displayed on another page, in the publication of a despatch reporting Moulton's disgusting talk, while suppressing the closing line of the despatch, which stated that the paper which gave the interview headed it with the significant query: "Is Moulton crazy?" And this omission was supplied by a complaint that no more had been received by telegraph!

THE CITY SCHOOLS will begin one week from to day. The examination for admission to the high school, and also the re-examination of all applicants conditioned at the last examination, will take place at the high school building on Saturday, September 5th, at nine o'clock in the forenoon. Swinton's Word Speller will be introduced in the select and grammar schools, and Swinton's Primary Speller in the intermediate and primary schools.

PORTABLE IRON FURNACE.

Brick and Portable 4 sizes Brick 5 sizes Portable.

Simple and Durable in its Construction. As Easily Managed as a Parlor stove. Large Heating Surface Economy from Coal and Fuel. Does not heat the Cellar.

Manufactured by DIGHTON FURNACE CO.

In the construction of the Windsor Hot Air Furnace it has been made a study to avoid the difficulties and annoyances too often found in Furnaces. Pipes may all be from gas and dirt, is the great desideratum sought. Without enlarging upon the important matter of warming and ventilating houses, about which so much has been written, we are desirous to call your attention to the New Wrought Iron Windsor Heater, as possessing the requisite for a healthful and economical application.

The base and fire pot of the Windsor, instead of being cast iron, the fire pot lined with fire brick, so that the current of cold air as it comes in from the based is not come in contact with red hot plates, destroying its vitality, but is delivered into the hot air chamber pure and healthful.

The Radiator is made of the best Wrought Iron, so thoroughly riveted as a steam boiler, making the escape of gas and dust an impossibility, thus securing what cannot be guaranteed by any Cast Iron Furnace, with its many flues and joints, a healthful consideration here.

The reversible flue insures the even distribution of heat over the whole furnace, leaving no part more less than making it the most powerful heater in the market. Another distinguishing feature of the Windsor is the ease with which the flues can be cleaned out. This has been a serious difficulty with most furnaces, but has been entirely overcome in the Windsor. The accumulation of soot and ashes in the flues can be thoroughly removed in a few minutes. The Windsor has been thoroughly tested and we invite all in want of a superior heating apparatus to an examination of its merits.

THE PLYMOUTH CHURCH INVESTIGATION.

Report of the Committee.

THE TESTIMONY REVIEWED.

MRS TILTON'S CONFESSION.

It now appears that during these years Mrs Tilton became strongly attached to Mr. Beecher, and in July, 1870, confessed to her husband an overfullowing affection for her pastor. On or about the 15th of December Mrs T separated from her husband, going with her children to her mother's house. She sent for Mr Beecher, on his visiting her she made a statement to him of her sufferings, and the abuse which she had received at the hands of her husband, which greatly shocked Mr Beecher. He asked and received permission to send to Mrs. T. his wife, whose judgment in such matters he considered better than his own.

RECONCILIATION.

Subsequently he agreed in advising, with his wife, that it was desirable that Mrs Tilton should separate from her husband. Mrs Tilton, however, subsequently urged his wife to return to his house by sending for and obtaining possession of his youngest child who was sick with the croup, during Mrs. Tilton's temporary absence from her mother's house. He visited a miscarriage the next day after her return, on the 24th which resulted in a serious illness, continuing until after the first of January, her physician being in daily attendance on her from the 26th to the 30th of December inclusive.

NOWAK DISCHARGES TILTON.

Early in December of this year, owing to the marked change in Mr Tilton's religious and social views, Mr. Bowen felt constrained to give him notice that his services as editor of the Independent would terminate at a day named in the notice. Subsequently to the notice, or about the 20th of December, Mr Bowen had entered into a contract with Mr Tilton, by which he was to be editor of the Brooklyn Daily Union, and chief contributor of the Independent for five years. But within a few days after making this contract, Mr. Bowen received such information of Mr. Tilton's manner of life as alarmed him, and led to an interview between himself, Tilton and Oliver Johnson, at the house of Bowen, on the 2d day of December, 1870.

THE THREATENING LETTER.

At this interview Mr Tilton sought to retain his place and Bowen's confidence by offering to join Bowen in an attack on Mr Beecher. This interview resulted in the most abject letter which Tilton wrote and signed on the 27th of December, demanding that Mr Beecher leave Plymouth pulpit and Brooklyn. That evening Mr Bowen on his way home delivered this letter to Mr Beecher who expressed astonishment and denounced the author. Bowen derided the letter, gave his reasons for discharging Tilton, and said he was considering whether he could let it lie in any connection with either of his papers. Mr Beecher said he did not see how Bowen could retain Tilton. Bowen read the letter and said it troubled him he could stand by Beecher.

TILTON FIRST PREPARES HIS CHANCES.

It now appears that on the 29th of December, 1870, Mr. Tilton, having learned the advice Mr. Beecher gave Mr Bowen, and which was likely to bring him face to face with the loss of place and position, returned from his home in Brooklyn, bearing ill of miscarriage, a document implicating Mr. Beecher—a document evincing her love for her pastor, and accusing him of having made an improper solicitation. On the following day he sent Moulton to Beecher, requesting an interview with Mr Beecher at Moulton's house that evening. On arriving there Tilton arranged Beecher for interfering in his domestic affairs, seeking his downfall, advising Bowen to dismiss him, corrupting his wife's moral virtue, and ended by charging that he made wicked proposals to her, which he supported by producing the letter and confession. It is clear, from Tilton's own statement that the inciting cause of this attack was a belief that Beecher had caused him the loss of his place and business repute. Mr. Beecher says that this charge of improper proposal fell upon him like a thunderbolt. Could it be possible that Mrs. Tilton, whom he regarded as the type of so much moral goodness, should have made such a baleful and treacherous statement?

THE RETRACTION.

Mr Tilton requested Mr. Beecher to repair to his home, where Elizabeth was waiting for him, and learn from her lips the truth of the charge. On her he found Tilton and Moulton, who said, in the presence of the latter, "Mr Beecher, two days after, to remove that investigation. They say I have asked you to make a thorough and searching inquiry into the subject of solicitation of my wife. I have called you to make a thorough and impartial, and to collect all facts from every obtainable source, that the truth may be ascertained. I have sent for you to meet them, that you may be able to make a thorough and impartial investigation of their charges, and to report to them before them." Mr Beecher said, "I will do it." Tilton said, "Elizabeth, Mr Beecher, two days after, to remove that investigation. They say I have asked you to make a thorough and searching inquiry into the subject of solicitation of my wife. I have called you to make a thorough and impartial, and to collect all facts from every obtainable source, that the truth may be ascertained. I have sent for you to meet them, that you may be able to make a thorough and impartial investigation of their charges, and to report to them before them." Mr Beecher said, "I will do it." Tilton said, "Elizabeth, tell Mr Beecher what you told me." Mrs. Tilton, in a low tone, said, "I have no such charge to make against Mr Beecher

IS IT WELL?

Heart, is it well with thee?
Well with the soul?
What will thy record be,
As time doth roll
Onward, eternity—
Will it speak joy
Or bitter woe to thee?
Never to cease?

Life is so real,
So great and so true,
Yet it is
Why, I only guess,
Raising our eyes
As high as we may
To the heavenly
Well, yet it is day

Strive I this night
I live down the wrong,
Earnest and strong
Let my task be
Let me be
Trusting in Him

Never shall golden tears
Fall for this opportunity
Never to be
Truly repent
If I have strived
Truth, truth is sanctify
Toward and upward
To God the one

If we are true to
Our best impulses
Pity we come before time,
Are we to be aware
Close to the garden
Through the Redeemed
Are we for Paradise
Must we fall away

Let the world
Let it
Let it
Let it
